

Task:

Imagine you had to live for a week without a technological device you use in your daily life. Choose a device from the survey, the article or use your own ideas. Make notes about what the experience might be like.

Use:

loyal	верный
passionate	страстный
self-confident	уверенный в себе optimistic	оптимистичный ambitious	честолюбивый
arrogant	высокомерный
sensitive	чувствительный
naive	наивный

Use:

give up	сдаться
have a go at	попробовать
keep it up	так держать
keep to	придерживаться
make an effort	сделать усилие manage to	удается
successfully	успешно
try out	проверять
work out	упражняться

Use:

the first thing	во-первых
but	но
already	уже
actually	на самом деле
after breakfast	после завтрака not surprisingly	не удивительно then it was	тогда это было naturally	естественно
afterwards	после
strangely	как ни странно
all in all	в общем
predictably	предсказуемо
however	тем не менее
undoubtedly	несомненно

- 1 In questions, we usually put the auxiliary verb before the subject. If there is no auxiliary verb, we add do or did.
Are you making dinner? Have you eaten?
What did you eat?
- 2 If the question word (who, what or which) is the subject, we keep normal word order.
Who spoke to you? What happened next?
- 3 If a question has a preposition, it can come at the end:
You were talking to someone. → Who were you talking to?
- 4 To ask an opinion, we often ask questions starting with a phrase like Do you think ... ?
Is it a good idea? → Do you think it's a good idea?